MANCHURIA. Agreement in Paris. Unanimous Vote on Resolution. RESERVED POINTS.

Paris, Dec. 10.
M. Briand opened the proceedings at to-day's public meeting of the League Council at 4.32 p.m. General Dawes, the American representative, was not present despite the general expectation.
After introductory remarks, M. Briand called upon Mr. Yoshizawa, the Japanese delegate, for a statement.
Mr. Yoshizawa's Thanks.
Mr. Yoshizawa expressed thanks to the Council for their courtesy in adjourning the meeting, after the reading of the Council's resolution, till to-day, and also the gratitude and sincere appreciation of the Japanese Government for the efforts displayed.
In the Manchuria situation, he said, there were special circumstances making the question difficult, namely, the distance from Europe and the diversity of interests engaged.
He announced that the Japanese Government were willing to accept the League's resolution.
The Council, he said, had dealt with the question at issue in a spirit of conciliation, goodwill and patience. Thanks to the fact manifested, a draft resolution had been drawn up which offered the best means of a settlement.

A Reservation.
The Japanese Government had, therefore, instructed him to accept the resolution, on the understanding that Paragraph Two would not prevent the Japanese military from taking action in defence of the lives and property of their nationals, against bandits and other lawless elements in Manchuria.
Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese representative, followed Mr. Yoshizawa, delivering a long statement embodying eight points.
He said the Chinese Government intended to discharge in good faith every obligation assumed in agreeing to the resolution as interpreted by M. Briand.
The arrangements being practical and designed to meet the pending emergency, it was therefore necessary, in the interest of complete understanding, to record certain observations and reservations in principle.
Carried Unanimously.
Lord Cecil (Britain) following Dr. Sze, expressed thanks to the Council's Chinese and Japanese colleagues for accepting the resolution, after which M. Briand submitted it to formal vote. It was carried unanimously.
The resolution was adopted within 38 minutes of the opening of the session.
General Discussion.
The remaining period was spent in a general discussion. M. Briand said that the American participation in the deliberations of the Council had been a marked feature of the Manchurian dispute. He hoped they would always show a constant and parallel interest in collaboration.

CONFIDENCE IN BRITAIN'S FUTURE.

GLOUCESTER BUILDING APARTMENTS. LAND INVESTMENT CO.'S SCHEME FOR THE TOP FLOORS.

TEA LOUNGE & DANCE FLOOR.

THE four top floors of Gloucester Building, when ready, are to be utilised as a residential furnished apartment house, to be operated by the Hongkong Land Investment and Agency Co., Ltd. itself.

Definite decisions to put this plan into effect were recently reached by the directors of the Company, after consideration of alternative proposals.

Every possible arrangement will be made for the comfort and convenience of residents, and it is hoped that the scheme will be in full operation in March of next year.

Details of the project were outlined to a Telegraph representative by Mr. L. S. Greenhill, Secretary of the Company, in the course of an interview, when it was explained that the scheme makes provision for 116 rooms in all, of which 76 will be single. A feature will be that each room will be equipped with a bathroom, with hot and cold water.

Open to Public.

Provision is also being made for a restaurant, a bar and a ten lounge, while there will also be a private dining room, which residents may book for special parties should they so desire.

The restaurant, which will be situated on the eighth floor, will be fitted with a special spring dance floor, and, as in the case of the ten lounge, it will be open to use by the public.

A further point of interest is that there will be access to the roof, from which a very fine view is obtainable, and it is expected that this will be a very popular rendezvous in the hot months of the summer.

Special care is being taken in the equipment of the establishment, the furnishing of which will be in the hands of Lane, Crawford, Ltd.

There will be five high-speed passenger lifts, made by the Express Lift Company, which is Kowloon Ladies in Motor Accident.

Austin Mounts Embankment and Comes to Rest on Hood.

Mrs. Moon, of No. 1, Cambay Buildings, and Mrs. Fisher, wife of Captain Fisher, of Jordan House, Kowloon, were the victims of an alarming motor accident on the Castle Peak Road yesterday afternoon.
An Austin saloon which Mrs. Moon was driving mounted the embankment of a new road and completely overturned, coming to rest on its hood.
Both ladies suffered from severe shock as a result of the accident and were unable to extricate themselves, and it was not until Sergeant Goodwin, of the Shamshupo Police Station, came along, shortly afterwards, that the unfortunate ladies were released.
Both Mrs. Moon and Mrs. Fisher were rushed to the Kowloon Hospital where it was found that beyond the nervous shock neither had suffered injury. Mrs. Fisher was, however, detained. Her conditions is not serious.
The accident occurred along the reclamation near Cheung Sha Wan where a new road is in the course of construction.

STABILISATION OF STERLING.

MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN'S STRIKING SPEECH.

THE BUDGET OUTLOOK.

GREAT BRITAIN remains the greatest creditor nation in the world.

When world conditions have settled down, sterling will resume its place as the principal standard of international credit.

The stabilisation of the pound will be effected when the moment is propitious, but at what figure, it would be folly to hint.

These were the striking features of a peroration by Mr. Neville Chamberlain in the House of Commons last night when the debate was resumed on the Labour motion of censure. The speech was loudly cheered, and the motion, when submitted to the vote, was defeated by 439 votes to 44.

Mr. Chamberlain, who is Chancellor of the Exchequer, denied that there was any reason to fear a serious deficit in the Budget this year, and still less, next year. There was every reason to suppose that the Government would be able to meet all its obligations out of current annual revenue and simultaneously make substantial provision for debt redemption.

PREPARED FOR EMERGENCIES.

London, Dec. 10.
The debate on the Labour censure motion was resumed after a very full question time, during which one hundred and sixty questions received oral answers.
To-morrow, after the debate on the adjournment, the House will rise for the Christmas recess and will reassemble on February 2.
The Prime Minister announced this afternoon, however, that the adjournment motion would give power to the Speaker to call the House together earlier if public interests required it.

Government's Policy.

An important statement by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, on the Government's policy in regard to currency and exchange problems, was the feature of the resumed debate on the Labour censure motion.
Mr. Chamberlain said that although the present situation was not altogether satisfactory, he did not regard the recent fall in the exchange value of the pound with serious apprehension.

War Debts and Reparations.
It was easier to see an unsatisfactory state of things than to decide upon the remedy, but there was one question which, it seemed to him, might, if wisely handled, have a greater effect than anything else in restoring confidence, the lack of which was the basic cause of international financial troubles, namely, a settlement of the reparations and war debt question.

He hoped the experts at Basle would be able to report if not before, soon after, the end of the year.

The Report, he thought, would be followed by a meeting of Governments, which he earnestly hoped would succeed in reaching some arrangement and restoring confidence in Germany's ability to meet her commercial obligations.
This would thaw out the ice jam in international affairs.

Rumours Denounced.
The Chancellor took occasion to denounce the rumours, which he said were in circulation abroad, that the depreciation of sterling was a voluntary and deliberate act for the purpose of stimulating British exports.

There was no truth whatever in that suggestion. They had done their best to maintain Britain on the gold standard but were forced off it by causes beyond their control. The increase made in the fiduciary issue last August, which was quoted in support of these rumours, was, in fact, subsequently followed by a decrease in the issue backed by gold, and the Internal Value.

The Government, Mr. Chamberlain said, would pursue its policy of maintaining as steadily as possible the internal purchasing power of the pound.

It had every reason to suppose that they would be able to meet all their obligations out of current revenue and to make substantial provision for debt redemption.

The stability of sterling, Mr. Chamberlain continued, was essential to healthy trade throughout world.

There had, no doubt, been some withdrawal of foreign balances in London but he wished to contradict reports that withdrawals had been made by the French

SOVIET TRADE SCANDAL.

TRUST LEADERS ARRESTED.

IMMENSE LOSS INVOLVED.

Riga, Dec. 10.
A considerable sensation has been caused by the arrest of many prominent Soviet citizens in connexion with an alleged industrial scandal of considerable magnitude.

Those taken into custody by the Soviet police include twelve Chairmen of the State Trusts.

The arrests were made following a secret investigation into the affairs of Controsyus, the central body which forms the unity between the Consumers' Co-operative Societies and the principal Trading Trusts.

It is stated that colossal losses to the State are involved, besides a shortage of food and clothing for the masses.

It is expected that there will be a rapid and impressive trial.—Reuter.

EVERYTHING UP.

SILVER, DOLLAR AND POUND.

Although there is a slight improvement in the London-New York cross-rate, which has risen to 3.39, silver has also advanced both in London and New York, with the result that the Hongkong dollar has appreciated a farthing, the demand rate on opening being 1s. 6.9/16d.

Silver rose in London 7/16ths. The Continent was a small buyer, and there were small offerings, the market being quiet. After the official fixing, the market ruled dull, America not showing much interest.

In New York, there was a rise of 3/8ths, from 29 1/2 to 29 7/8. The market closed steady.

Shanghai is quite steady at 1s. 11.13/16d. and 1s. 11.7/8d., as also is Hongkong at 1s. 6.13/16d. and 1s. 5.7/8d.

London advices suggest the probability of a further improvement in the cross-rate.

INDIA POLICY APPROVED.

CLOSE OF DEBATE IN LORDS.

London, Dec. 10.
The House of Lords, after a three days' debate, to-day approved the Government's India policy, as outlined in the Prime Minister's statement concluding the Round Table Conference.

A motion by Lord Middleton for an adjournment of the debate in order to allow fuller time for consideration was rejected by 100 votes to 68.—Reuter.

Government or the Bank of France. Franco had left her balances undisturbed.

Others had removed their balances; probably less through want of confidence in Britain than by reason of a desire to have liquid resources available in the uncertain state of their own countries.

It is certain, said Mr. Chamberlain, that those foreigners who have been taking their funds away at the present level of the pound and thereby increasing their losses, will very much regret it some day when they find, as I am confident they will find, that their action was totally unnecessary.

Although at the moment we may have some difficulty with our foreign debts, still we remain the greatest creditor nation in the world. When world conditions settle down, I have not the slightest doubt we shall find sterling resuming its place as the principal standard in international credit.—British Wireless and Reuter.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

TRIBUTES TO SIR SHOUSON CHOW.

SHING MUN SCHEME.

The retirement from his position as an Unofficial Member of the Legislative Council of Sir Shouson Chow formed the subject of valdictory speeches by His Excellency the Governor.

After Mr. T. N. Chan had taken the Oath of Allegiance as an Unofficial Member of the Council, in place of the Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, who has retired, His Excellency said:

Honourable Members: Since we last met in this Chamber, this Council has sustained a serious loss. Sir Shouson Chow had been a member for a period of ten years, having been appointed originally on the 2nd December, 1921, for six years, and re-appointed on the 2nd December, 1927, for four years. The Secretary of State has ruled that, except in special circumstances, a member shall not serve more than two terms. I should, however, have been ready to submit Sir Shouson's name for re-appointment, had he not expressed a wish, on account of age, not to seek re-appointment. His ripe wisdom, sage counsel, and his consistent loyalty at once to my predecessors and myself, the Government and the Colony, have been of immense value, and it is somewhat difficult to envisage this Council without him.

Council's Loss.

The loss, however, is somewhat tempered by the fact that he still remains a member of the Executive Council, having been re-appointed last July for a second period of five years. His advice and counsel will, therefore, I am glad to say, still be available to the Government.

Speaking personally, although we have not known one another for a very long period, a strong bond of personal friendship has been established between us for which I need hardly say I have the greatest regard, and I am happy to think that I shall continue to have the benefit of his advice and help.

I take this opportunity of welcoming Sir Henry Pollock back to the Council, and also of tendering a welcome to the new member.

Sir Henry Pollock.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—Sir, I must begin by thanking you personally for welcoming me back to this Council.

As Senior Unofficial Member I desire to express my great regret, which I am sure is shared by all my Unofficial colleagues, at the retirement of Sir Shouson Chow from this Council.

The ten years during which my Honourable friend has sat in this Council have included periods of considerable anxiety and even difficulty, and I consider that not only this Council but the Colony are to be congratulated upon having had the benefit during those troublesome times of the ripe experience and sound judgment of Sir Shouson Chow.

Personally, I shall very much miss the assistance which has been freely given to me at all times of such an able, cheerful and loyal colleague, and I rejoice to think that the Colony and the Government will still retain the benefit of Sir Shouson Chow's services upon the Executive Council.

I take this opportunity of cordially welcoming the co-operation of the new Unofficial Member, the Honourable Mr. T. N. Chan whose father, the late Mr. Chau Siu Ki, was for a time a valued colleague of mine on this Council.

Hon. Mr. Kotewall's Tribute.

Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall:—Sir, With the exception of the Honourable senior unofficial member, I have served with the Hon. Sir Shouson Chow on this Council for a longer period than has any other unofficial member. For the last eight years I have, I believe, associated with him in public work more closely and intimately than has any other individual in the Colony.

Gems of Peril

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Old Mrs. Jupiter, wife of the millionaire automobile manufacturer, gives an engaging dinner and dance for her secretary and protégé, Mary Harkness, who is to marry Dirk Dauton, son of a blue-blooded family.

Mary receives a telephone call from her escapee brother, Eddie, saying he is in trouble and must see her. The house is strictly guarded against "gate-crashers" because Mrs. Jupiter is wearing the famous Jupiter rubies.

Mary arranges for Eddie to be admitted secretly. When she goes upstairs to meet him she hears screams and then shuts in Mrs. Jupiter's room.

CHAPTER II

Fearfully, as if drawn by a magnet, Mary moved slowly forward. Outside the closed door of Mr. Jupiter's sitting room she stopped, and called sharply, experimentally, "Eddie?" Then more loudly, "Eddie!" There was no reply.

Could it be Eddie in there? "What would he be doing in Mrs. Jupiter's room?" He had no business there unless the servants had directed him there in error, or had gone in there by mistake.

He hadn't said anything about bringing someone with him, though, and some other person was in there—the person he had been quarrelling with. Suddenly she remembered, and the realization stunned her. Mrs. Jupiter was in that room. Hadn't she gone upstairs to take her shoes off? It had been Mrs. Jupiter's voice she heard. Then whose—oh, dear God—whose hand had fired those shots?

Perhaps there hadn't been any. Her unbelieving mind was milling about desperately. Perhaps an automobile had backed-fired in the drive. But that was nonsense—the noise had been close, plain. You couldn't hear noise from the outside clearly in here, in this great heavy-walled house with the thickly shuttered windows.

The silence began to tear at her nerves. Gasping with excitement, she reached out suddenly and jerked open the door. The room was brightly lighted, but empty. She looked about, dumbfounded, almost ready to believe that her senses had tricked her.

Then she looked down—and there on the floor lay the crumpled figure of Mrs. Jupiter, the white hair away where the diamond headdress had been ruthlessly snatched from it, the gold dress twisted about her knees, the poor wrinkled old face haggard but strangely peaceful under the searching glare of the lights. An old pair of felt house slippers covered her feet.

Her hands, barren now of rings, still clutched something which she held clasped tightly between the palms, still firmly grasped together on her breast. It was the ruby necklace.

But it was the spot in her forehead, just below the hairline, from which a slow ooze of blood trickled and ran redly down the temple into the snow white hair, that drew Mary's horrified gaze.

Her distended eyes took in the whole scene with photographic clarity before she realized its enormity. For the first time it occurred to her as she stared at the still, dishevelled figure, that Mrs. Jupiter was dead.

What had happened seemed quite clear—Mrs. Jupiter had been robbed, but she had not given up the necklace. With her last breath she had protected it; the coil of blood-red stones between her fingers testified to her success. The thief had not been able to get it away from her, but his baulked fury had cost her life.

A scream broke from the girl's lips, and without looking where she was going she backed away from the figure on the floor and stumbled through the first door that presented itself, the door into Mrs. Jupiter's bedroom. She closed the door and leaned against it, shaking, her knees nearly giving under her. She tried to collect her thoughts.

Suppose it had been money, then, that Eddie needed—

She ran from room to room, stumbling in her haste, opening doors, cutting. There was no sign of disturbance in the other rooms. Her own door was open. If Eddie had been there, he had gone. She stood in the hall, looking from one blank door to another, calling, "Eddie-boy dear, where are you?" The silence seemed unnatural. She broke into helpless sobs.

Suddenly it came to her that what she had been thinking was simply fantastic. Eddie had had nothing to do with this. More than likely the poor boy had not even come yet. Something had happened to delay him. She looked at her wrist-watch. Twenty minutes had elapsed since his telephone call. She ran downstairs in feverish haste.

At the foot of the stairs she collided with Spence, who was just coming up. She grabbed him by the shoulders and held on while she tried to get control of her voice.

"Oh, Spence! Spence! Go up to Mrs. Jupiter's room, quickly. Something's happened. She's hurt. I think she's—dead!"

The old servant held her off sternly, inspecting her reproachfully.

"You're excited and overwrought, Miss Mary. And no wonder, with all that's goin' on hereabouts to-night. A man can't hear his own thoughts," he added tartly, as an extemporaneous tap-dancing contest broke out behind them in the ballroom. "Let alone knowing what he'll find when he turns a corner unexpected."

His thin nostrils quivered with disdain as his upturned gaze picked out the white blur of a girl's frock encircled by the black-clad arms of her escort, half hidden in a turn of the stair.

"I tell you it's true," Mary insisted. "I heard them, and I've seen her. Her rings are gone, and the tiara, and her forehead—oh, you'll see, if you'll just go on up!"

"Well, well, we'll see," he replied, testily, starting forward with obvious reluctance. "Indeed, I was just going up anyhow to answer Mrs. Jupiter's bell."

"Bell?"

With a reproachful lift of the eyebrows, he ascended. Mary, watching the matter-of-fact back moving upward so serenely, almost decided she must be mistaken. Murders and such don't happen where I am, that respectable back seemed to say.

What she wanted now was to find Bessie, but Bessie proved hard to find. Tracked to earth in the butler's pantry, munching marmosade and stuffed olives with blithe impartiality, Bessie slipped quickly down off the high stool she was perched on and confronted Mary sullenly.

Mary's white face and burning eyes, and the quiet, precise manner of her question, puzzled her. Scouting reproach, she took quick affront, after the manner of her kind.

"And how would I know who came in?" she retorted, pettily. "I suppose I've had nothing to do but listen for the doorbell, with all this racket going on!"

Bessie obviously was cut out for the life of the party, and her sulking was not unnatural. Relief surged up in Mary's heart.

"Then you didn't let anybody in?"

"They let themselves in, if they came," the maid snapped. "I'd no time to be bouncing in and out of there. I just went and unlocked the side door when you told me, Miss, and left it open. If they came, they got in all right."

Mary drew a long breath. "Thank you, Bessie."

It was not Bessie's fault; it was her own, if it was anybody's. The side door was standing open as she passed. Nearly half an hour. Anybody might have come in, and gone out. Could it be possible? A half-crazed boy, and the sight of all those jewels—

If he were desperately in need of money—But he would have waited. She had never failed to get him out of any of his scrapes before.

Mary closed the door and locked it again.

It seemed hours before Spence came down, and when he did he seemed to have forgotten that she lived. He seemed surprised that she was still standing in the same spot where he had left her.

telephone Eddie. He shared a flat with two or three other young men, and because of them she had never visited him. His telephone number was the only definite link she had with him.

Someone answered, but it was not Eddie. Eddie was not there. Had not been there for three or four days.

"I know something is the matter," Mary told him—she was sure he was lying—"but I'm his sister. He called me about half an hour ago. It's very important. Don't you know where he is?"

It was quite hopeless. The boys were as worried as she was. Eddie seemed to have disappeared.

Mary put up the receiver slowly. She wanted to go somewhere and think, but she did not like to leave the telephone. Eddie might call again at any minute, and she wanted to be there.

The figure of Teddy Daulton lurched into the hallway. Teddy always pretended to be drunker than he was. It was part of his "line." He fancied himself as a comedian. Now he halted before her with shouts of delight.

"We thought you'd eloped!" he chorled gaily. "Where's Dirk?" His puzzled gaze searched the dark corner in vain. Anything to get rid of him. Mary thought desperately.

"Listen, Ted," she said quickly, "will you do something for me? He was complaining, but suspicious. Then go and find your host for me. He may be out in the drive talking to the chauffeurs. Find him and bring him here, quick."

Teddy saluted elaborately. "I hear and obey." He turned himself around and started off, but suddenly stopped and clapped a hand to his head. "By the way, who is my host?"

Then he snapped his fingers. "Ah, I remember. Now don't go away, sweetheart—I'll be right back!"

He moved off, making exaggerated motions of search, lifting cushions, spanking draperies, and inspecting woodwork through a nonexistent magnifying glass. She had not really expected any help from the fool but his silliness seemed more than she could bear.

Suddenly she wanted Dirk terribly. He would know what to do. The ballroom was deserted as she crossed it and a babble of voices from the dining room told that supper was being served. Dirk and Cornelia were not there.

She went out on the terrace. Some dark corner would yield them, she felt sure. As she came out on the walk that led to the lower garden, the sound of voices below her arrested her attention.

Two figures were swaying together on the very lip of the lily-pool, the woman's white dress brightly silhouetted against the dark.

"I will! I will, too!" she was sobbing. "Let go of me, you brute!"

It was Cornelia, and the man whose chest she was pounding with her fists as he held her firmly by the shoulders, was Dirk. (To be Continued).

SHANGHAI MAYOR VIRTUAL PRISONER.

Shanghai, Dec. 10. Mr. Chan Chun, the Mayor of Shanghai and a number of Chinese Municipal employees are virtual prisoners at the hands of students who are infuriated by the arrest of a comrade from Peking. The students wrecked the local Kuomintang headquarters last night, subsequently attacking the Chinese Municipal building.

Colonel Chen Hsi-tseng, whose dismissal the students are demanding, did not appear at office this morning.

Last night a body of students wrecked the Chenju Station on the Shanghai-Nanking Railway owing to the refusal of the station master to give them free passage to Nanking.

Students also cut the telegraph and telephone wires. The

A TRANS-ATLANTIC
AIR SERVICE.BRITISH AIRSHIP BASE
MAY BE USED.

London, Dec. 10. Much interest has been aroused in the visit to England of Dr. Eckener, the commander of the Graf Zeppelin, who after a visit to the Cardington airship sheds yesterday, in company with Colonel Leeds, representing American airship and financial interests, and the Master of Sempill, the well-known English airman, had an interview with the Air Minister, Lord Londonderry.

Later Dr. Eckener stated that they hoped to get the sanction of the British Government to the use of the air stages which he had inspected, for the proposed Atlantic service. The discussion with Lord Londonderry was of a general character, in which the desirability of Britain, Germany and America combining was stressed. No detailed proposals have been advanced.

In an interview with the press, Dr. Eckener said he had also seen the Foreign Secretary in regard to the scheme, which was still in the embryonic stage.—British Wireless.

POPULAR INDIAN CRICKETER MARRIED.

The wedding took place last night at No. 5, Village Road, Happy Valley, of Sheikh Akbar Ismail, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Ismail, to Rahima, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. O. el Arculli.

The bride, who wore a sarree of pink lace and carried a sheaf of gladioli, was given away by her uncle, Mr. A. el Arculli. The best man was Mr. S. A. R. Ismail, while Amina el Arculli and Amina Abdul-Guroom (cousins of the bride) were the bridesmaids. They were attired in native Indian dress and carried bouquets of pink roses. The ceremony was performed according to Muslim rites. A reception was held later and the health of the couple toasted. They were the recipients of many presents, which included one from the members of the Indian Recreation Club, of which the bridegroom is a member, being the wicket-keeper of the Senior cricket team.

CLIQUE.

One of the desires of the Rotary Club, according to Sir William Hornell, is to break down the barriers which mark the division of Hongkong people into so many cliques. No-one who has lived in this Colony for any length of time will dispute the statement that,
to use Sir William's words, there is too much superfluous heart-burning and unnecessary mutual suspicion here. Nor will it be denied that the evil is not wholly as between one community and another—there are cliques in every community. It is, however, one thing to bemoan an undesirable situation, and quite another to rectify it. Undoubtedly, the principles for which Rotary stands should be helpful in achieving a freer mixing as between the various classes, but even the most ardent Rotarian will concede that it will require something much more than periodical gatherings in public to break down the divisions which mark off various sections of the community. Something is gained in this way by the creation of new friendships, but it will only be by a commingling of the several classes in everyday social life, and in each others' homes, that an impression will be made on the problem.

It is quite common to hear people declare that there are more cliques in Hongkong than in any other place of the same size. Such generalisations are easy to make, but difficult to establish. If the truth could be revealed, it would probably be found that this Colony is no worse nor no better than any other centre in this respect.

When all is said and done, there is a natural and quite reasonable tendency for people everywhere to form themselves into groups in their social life, on the principle that like gravitates to like. No man or woman can be expected to find either pleasure or benefit in continuously consorting with those whose ideas and outlook on life run contrary to their own. Everyone has the right to make his or her own circle of friendships. But to say so much is not to deny the fact that the superiority complex does obtrude itself far too much;
whilst at the other end of the scale
we have the type of individual who is always on the look-out for slights and who, if the truth be told, often imagines a patronising attitude on the part of others where none is intended. In these matters, it is easy to believe just what we want to believe. The great need is for people to be their natural selves, neither scorning
the lowly nor apeing those above them in station or culture. We cannot, however much we may wish it, wipe out social distinctions; they always have existed, and they always will. Yet the world would be infinitely better if we accepted men and women for what they are, for their worth in real values, uninfluenced by considerations of financial or social standing. This is the ideal, and if the Rotary Club helps in attaining it, then it will have accomplished a great deal.

British people are in some quarters regarded as being more given to clique-making than any other race. This, we would suggest, is a misrepresentation of the facts.
We suffer perhaps more than we deserve from what is best described as our characteristic reserve.
Admittedly, we do not make friends freely or mix with that aplitude which is typical of many other peoples. But even our severest critics concede that, once the outer shell is broken through,
past misapprehensions are usually dissipated. We have something to learn from others in this matter, as they have from us. At heart, when all is said and done, mankind is pretty much of a much-ness the world over. Possibly here in Hongkong we are more conscious of each others' failings than we should be in a bigger sphere. Which may explain in part the impression which we find it hard to get away from that we are not quite such good mixers as we ought to be. In larger cities, cliques exist just as they do here, but with the greater diffusion of the community the fact is not so apparent.

Far East Shipping.

The decision of the Lloyd Triestino to place the Conte Rosso on the Far East run offers a challenge to the enterprise of British shipping companies, which will be emphasised if, as is distinctly possible, the Conte Verde, joins in the race for passengers and freights.
The Conte Rosso is a vessel which both for speed
and comfort will surpass anything previously plying regularly on the Suez route. She will cut down the time distance between Hongkong and London to 22 days, even less if the Brindisi train and air services are called into service.
Her appointments are luxurious, as they had to be considering that she was originally built to cater for wealthy South American tourists visiting Mediterranean ports. The Conte Verde, which will doubtless be brought on to the Far East run
if the Conte Rosso experiment proves a success, is a still more "fashionable" ship, and will add further to the prestige of Italian shipping. Knot for knot she is easily the equal of the Conte Rosso, which will undoubtedly break all records in February next. The outlook for British shipping is anything but bright. Hongkong cannot be other than gratified at the new opportunities offered by the Lloyd Triestino, and the most is likely to be made of these facilities. Britain has the poor consolation that these speedy vessels owe their excellence to British shipbuilding yards. Both the Conte Rosso and the Conte Verde are to the credit of the Clyde. The fact,

IF YOU LIVED IN RUSSIA

THE TOPSY-TURVY LAND OF THE SOVIETS

AS SEEN BY JULIA BLANSHARD

When you travel in Russia, you should travel as the Russians do, and that is "hard." "Hard" is the literal translation of the third class, "zhosky." It describes quite accurately the board shelf on which you sleep when you travel in a third class carriage.

There are two other choices for you besides "hard," the costly wagon lits which afford you luxurious, spacious compartments, with semi-private wash rooms; and "soft" (myakhat'), or second-class cars, which have upholstered compartments that can be made into presentable beds with disinfected sheets, pillow slips and blankets by paying the train su d, "povodnik," three roubles.

Travelling third is a distinctive experience, as I discovered when I occupied my wooden shelf for eight days crossing Siberia from China. These third class cars have no enclosed compartments. A corridor runs down one side of each car and at right angles to it, across the car, sections of wooden seats are built, exactly like wide pantry shelves, in tiers of three on either side of the windows, with each shelf far enough above the one below it to allow even a tall adult to sit erect.

The body of a Chinese woman, aged

however, simply goes to demonstrate the backwardness of British shipping policy. The P. and O.
Company's shipbuilding programme since the War has been anything but a modest one. On the contrary, a steady laying of orders for new ships has done much to prevent the shipbuilding slump in Britain from assuming worse proportions. Somehow or other, however, up to the present, British shipping companies in general have never considered speed to be an essential feature of ships designed for the Far East service. The Italian challenge may bring about a change of outlook and an all-round improvement in shipping services
via the Suez route.

There may be food shortages in the cities of Soviet Russia, but there is apparently none in the rural sections, for every time Julia Blanshard's train stopped vendors like these came alongside. They sold hard-boiled eggs, roast chicken, bread and butter—and almost anything!

During the day the pantry-shelf neighbours on the second and top bunks may descend to sit on the lowest shelf. But when night comes everybody has his own bare wooden shelf to stretch out and sleep on, unless the train is so crowded that several must huddle
together on one seat, sitting up.

All Russian travels "hard." In fact, after you have passed a couple of stations and seen the hordes of drably dressed and heavily laden peasants who surge into the train, you may conclude that all Russia is travelling, and on your train. When you travel hard in Russia you do not take your clothes off. You might lose the clothes.

Leaving Moscow for the Ukraine
my next-shelf neighbour, a stenographer, took off her new pale grey kid shoes, tied them to her belt
so no one could steal them, pulled her coat over her and lay down to sleep, having put her stockinged feet inside her food basket to keep them warm.

The Red soldier on the shelf
over me put his new kodak, his pride and joy and the envy of the whole train, under his head for a pillow. On the shelf under me a fat peasant woman and her little girl slept, one heading one way,
the other the other, with a dirty,
grey woollen comforter completely covering them both, head and all.

Men and women stagger under their burdens, bearing one or all

"Hello, Dear. I just wanted to hear you tell me how much you love me. But, remember, this is a long distance call."

four of the different kinds of Russian baggage, hurlap bundles, baskets, boxes and babies. I saw one three-year-old child bent half double with a food bag on his back and the family teapot in his hand.

When morning comes, some of these old-luggage bundles are opened to reveal black bread, sausage, cheese, hard-boiled eggs, tea,
all wrapped up in shirts, towels, baby clothes or right in with the family bed clothes. Real democracy holds sway. You take your place in the line for the toilet, you take your turn standing in the corridor looking out the windows and when the train stops you rush for a good place in the line in front of the "kipstock," the hot-water faucet which all Russian stations keep steaming for the great national drink, tea.

When you travel as the Russians
do you learn to avoid the diner.
Russian diners are not so attractive and much more expensive than foreign diners. Table cloths are nearly always dirty. Waiters look exactly like the train guards with khaki suits and caps that have the Communist sickle and hammer on them.

The majority of travelling Russians carry food sacks with them, eat at the station cafeterias or buy from vendors.

At Sinielnikov we had a three-hour wait so we got in line for lunch. Half the waiting room was used for a cafeteria. Three long tables, each with worn oil-cloth, filled the centre of this room. For 60 kopecks we got tickets for a hot plate which a waitress in a soiled white apron brought us. It had a couple of chopped meat, some boiled cabbage, stewed tomatoes, and two slices of black bread.

You soon learn to bargain at the food counters as the Russians
do. Half the fun of travelling third is to jump off at various stations and buy food. Women and children line up with all kinds of viands to sell. There seems to be plenty of food outside of Moscow. Food shortage in the cities is,
you realize, a transportation problem.

At Kramatorsk, in the Don Cos-sack country, where new glass factories are causing a boom, blocks of women sold broiled chickens for a rouble each, round
cheese, fried fish of several kinds, 30 kopecks each, including a tiny scarlet fish, that looked like lobster and tasted even better, some cheese, pats of butter, one rouble,
and the staple hard-boiled eggs,
four for a rouble.

Here I saw a little barefoot boy with a big brown earthen jug of boiled milk he was selling, running his fingers around the inside of the jug and sucking them and then licking them in again to repeat the process as he ran from platform to platform to offer the milk.

Trains are cleaner to-day than they were in 1925 when I crossed Siberia "hard." The guard comes along with his short broom made of tree twigs and sweeps out. A peasant boy, chewing sun-flower seeds, sticks his head out of the

GOLD STANDARD
IN JAPAN.COUNTRY SPLIT OVER RETENTION.ABANDONMENT NEXT YEAR?

Tokyo, Dec. 7.
Retention of the gold standard is the most difficult problem facing Japanese finance as the year 1931 draws to an end. The nation is split on the problem and there are grave doubts that the present free movement of gold can be continued through 1932.

Mr. Junnosuke Inouye, Minister of Finance in the Minseito Party Cabinet headed by Premier Baron Bejiro Wakatsuki, declares the gold standard can and will be maintained and that those elements favouring replacing the embargo on gold exports, lifted two years ago, are advocating a policy which would cripple national finances.

Mr. Tsuyoshi Inakuni, president of the Seiyukai—principal opposition party and the natural choice for Premier in event the Wakatsuki Cabinet should fall—declares the gold standard should have been abandoned months ago and the yen allowed to seek its natural level following the policy adopted by Great Britain's National Government with regard to the pound sterling.

The Seiyukai already is on record with a resolution declaring the embargo on gold and silver exports ought to be re-applied at once.

Foreign business men in Japan generally believe that the Seiyukai policy eventually will prevail and that the gold standard will have to be abandoned within a few months whether the Wakatsuki Cabinet is overthrown or not. They support their arguments by citing the fact it has been impossible to buy forward exchange on New York at quotations near par for months and that the Government has refused to allow any purchases of dollars except in proved legitimate commercial transactions.

The government declares its gold policy is necessary to prevent flight of the yen, which is caused by lack of confidence in the country's essential financial stability. If there were no exchange restrictions, the Minister of Finance asserts, speculators would wreck the yen in short order.

Great financial houses of Japan, including the famous House of Mitsu, already have been accused of plotting the fall of the yen. The government asserts that the Mitsus and other financial concerns have bought great quantities of American dollars with the deliberate idea of driving the yen off the gold standard and reaping enormous profits. The Mitsus and other concerns deny this charge and state they are merely following sound policy. They assert it is their opinion the yen cannot indefinitely be held at its gold parity on New York and that they have got to protect their interests by buying dollars to cover their operations for as far in advance as possible.

No Parallel with Britain
The Government declares this is merely speculation and shows a lamentable lack of patriotism. The Minister of Finance asserts the gold cover can fall to a point far lower than at present—it is now more than 60 per cent.—and the gold standard still will not be in danger. Reasons which caused Britain to abandon the gold standard, he asserts, do not exist in Japan. There are no short-term credits here to be withdrawn and no large foreign investments the withdrawal of which would cause a panic.

That a partial gold embargo has existed for weeks, however, impartial observers do not deny. Even small depositors with small yen accounts in foreign banks of Tokyo—such as the branch of the National City Bank of New York—cannot exchange their accounts into gold at the quoted Tokyo-New York cross rate. Such transactions are forbidden by the temporary rules of the Ministry of Finance.

Despite efforts to prevent the outflow of gold, however, the loss of gold during the last half of this year has been alarming and there can be no question that the yen would collapse at once if the government's restrictions on purchases of United States dollars were removed.

Predictions by well informed persons are heard daily in Tokyo that Japan will abandon the gold standard during the first quarter of 1932.

A lecture on "Midwifery" containing much that was of instructive value, was given by Professor English before an audience composed of members of the Hongkong University Medical Society in the Union Assembly Room last evening. At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks for his lecture was accorded the speaker.

DOGS AT THE OVAL.

PETITION AGAINST PROPOSAL.

Petitions against the proposal to hold greyhound racing on the Oval cricket ground at Kennington have been signed in London.

References to the scheme have been made from the pulpit, and numbers of clergy endorsed the criticisms of the Bishops of Woolwich and Kingston.

The petition forms were circulated in the neighbourhood, and public meetings were held to decide on the method of offering a protest. The Bishop of Kingston presided at one of these, and he was supported by the Mayor of Lambeth.

Dr. J. Darlington, vicar of St. Mark's, Kennington, said he viewed the proposal with grave disapproval, and he invited members of the congregation to sign petition forms. He quoted St. Paul's admonition in the Epistle to the Romans "that no man put a stumbling-block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way."

Other religious bodies are also moving in the matter. The Roman Catholic Bishop of Pella, Mr. W. F. Brown, who is rector of the local Roman Catholic church, made a statement in which he expressed disapproval of the scheme.

Bishop's Appeal.

"The dignity and stirring memories associated with great County and Test matches," he said "with the presence of international crowds on many occasions, seem to my mind to be outraged by the proposal to turn the cricket ground into a dog racing course."

Within 100 yards of the Oval there is a Roman Catholic convent and boarding school, and almost directly facing the ground there is a home for aged poor with 300 inmates.

"I appeal to the good feeling of the County Club authorities and to the Duchy of Cornwall administration," Bishop Brown said, "to have consideration for these and other defenceless people, who will have sleepless nights and suffer considerable inconvenience."

DARING AIR TESTS.

PILOTS 8,000 FT. SPIN IN EXPERIMENT.

Details of one of the most daring air tests ever undertaken are given in a report just issued by the Aeronautical Research Committee—"Measured Spins on Aeroplanes II," by S. B. Gates.

It was desired to measure the accelerations, rates of turn and rudder movements in spins to the right and left with a certain type of single-seater fighting aeroplane known to be dangerous in a spin. The machine was fitted with special recording instruments, and Flight Lieutenant C. E. Maitland, of the Experimental Section at Farnborough, took it up. After climbing to a great height he put the machine into a right-hand spin and held it in with the controls fully over.

After a few slow steep turns, the speed of rotation suddenly increased, the machine flicking round viciously and the time of each turn falling to only 1.2 seconds.

Flight Lieutenant Maitland still held the machine in the spin, and it was not until it had done ten turns that he attempted recovery. The machine refused to come out, and the speed of rotation "partially disabled" the pilot, causing him to lose his sense of direction and not to know which way he was applying the rudder.

For more than 8,000 feet Flight Lieutenant Maitland hurtled towards the ground, his machine twisting round with the speed of a top. Dazed by the violent motion and the dizzy fall, he tried every device to extricate the machine without success. For forty turns the aircraft fell out of control, and then the engine stopped and the machine came out and flew level.

Slight alterations were made to the machine, and Flight Lieutenant Maitland volunteered to do another test. This time the machine did 34 turns before coming out, and it was decided to abandon the tests.

For stealing a gold wrist watch from Minden Villas, a Chinese was sentenced to one month's hard labour by Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning. It was stated that defendant stole the watch during a visit to Minden Villas. Inspector Elston, who prosecuted, agreed that the theft was probably due to sudden temptation.

Colonel Myles, accompanied by members of his staff, Majors Flood and Anderson, are to conduct Part I of the Ralphs Shield Competition, in connexion with the St. John Ambulance Brigade, at Queen's College on Sunday. This comprises a company and stretcher drill. Part II, inspection of equipment, treatment of cases and viva-voce examination, will be taken on the following Sunday, 20th instant.

MASS POACHING IN SPAIN.WOMEN CREATE UPROAR AT ALGECIRAS.

Madrid, Nov. 5.
A clash between Civil Guards and armed peasants in the province of Badajoz to-day led to one death and several gravely wounded. Ninety men from various villages arranged to hunt on a private estate, and 80 Civil Guards were concentrated to prevent them.

The Civil Guards fired in the air as a warning, and then charged the poachers. The latter tried to surround the Civil Guards, but the Guards opened fire. A lively exchange of firing took place before the Civil Guards were able to put the poachers to flight. Many arrests were made.

At Algeciras a crowd of women created a disturbance to-day outside the town hall, necessitating the intervention of the Civil Guard before order was established. The object of the women's demonstration was to demand the release of some Syndicalists and Communists who were arrested yesterday for distributing manifestos.

THE "TELEGRAPH" ART
SUPPLEMENTTo-morrow's Pictorial Offerings.

Variety will be the keynote of to-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement.

A feature will be a series of photographs of the principals in "Miss Hook of Holland," which opens at the Theatre Royal to-morrow night.

Amongst local weddings illustrated will be those of Mr. James Cameron and Miss L. M. Young, Mr. E. L. Powell and Miss D. E. Clements, and Mr. P. R. Larken and Miss Chan.

Sporting events covered will include the Kowloon Dock bowls closing day and the Rugby match between the Club and the Army. There will also be snapshots taken of the Volunteers in camp, Brownies enjoying games at Government House, and a group taken at the Police Reserve dinner, as well as a photograph of the Scottish Company of the Volunteers with the Chieftain of St. Andrew's Society.

Amongst portraits will be those of Mr. T. N. Chiu, the new member of the Legislative Council, and Mr. Li Yuk-tong, who has just celebrated his 81st birthday.

Inciting the people not to any rents until their landlords reduced them by 50 per cent.

The women became disorderly and were shouting subversive cries when mounted Civil Guards came upon the scene to clear the street. One woman was wounded. Around the local prison a special guard is mounted. The Syndicalists are threatening a general strike for to-morrow.

The non-payment of rent is another weapon being utilised by Syndicalists and Communists in various parts of Spain, to produce disorder.

It was announced to-day that the Royal stables in Madrid will be taken down within 15 days' time to make way for public gardens, planned by the Madrid municipality.

DUMPING SCARE AT LONDON DOCKS.

THE OTHER SIDE.

A glimpse of the other side of the "dumping" scare at London Docks is afforded by a letter received by the News-Chronicle from Mr. E. R. Hatfield, chairman of Regents North Quay Wharf, Ltd., who handle part of the trade which is alarming the Protectionist Press. Mr. Hatfield says:

"Exactly the same scenes have always taken place during the months of October and November every year, this being the season when the Christmas trade from abroad naturally finds its way into the London market.

"The potato traffic is quite exceptional and is solely due to shortage of supplies owing to the partial failure of the British crop."

The result of the increase in the seasonable traffic, the letter points out, has been a very considerable improvement in the shipping, stowage, dockers and carrier trades. Moreover, the existence of these foreign stocks must help to prevent any quick increase in the cost of living.

LORD BORODALE TO MEDIATE.LONDON TENEMENTS RATES
WAR.

Lord Borodale, the young conservative M.P. for Peckham, is to act as mediator in the Peckham tenements dispute.

He proposes to get in touch with Sir William Ray, the Leader of the Municipal Reform Party in the London County Council, and with the Lambeth Borough Council to see whether a conference can be called immediately. He is also to raise the matter in Parliament.

Sir William Ray told a reporter: "I shall be only too pleased to discuss the matter with Lord Borodale, and see what can be done to put the question on a satisfactory basis."

Sixteen members of the borough council have announced their intention of making a weekly collection of rates, the objective for which the tenants have been fighting.

Signs of Spreading.

Meanwhile, the passive resistance campaign against the quarterly payment of rates, shows signs of spreading from the Hill-street tenements to other tenements in the district.

"G.H.O." of the Workers Defence Movement at the Hill-street tenements is a barely furnished room. Half a dozen men and one woman are on guard there.

Guard for Collector.

Mr. E. Spokes, one of the men's leaders said:

"The council's rent collector has asked if he may come and collect the rents. He may do so. We have given our word that he will not be molested, and he will have a guard to take him round. But something will happen within the next few days.

"We have had 100 men acting as pickets all day with hourly reliefs, and tonight the number will be increased to 150."

Another of the men's leaders said: "If there is any trouble, there will be such a 'show' as has not been seen in London for many years. If the council try force they will be met with force. We do not intend to get out of here without a struggle."

In addition to workers' organisations from Camberwell and Southwark, the Deptford Workers' Defence Movement have offered help and have been told to keep in readiness.

IF YOU LIVED IN

window in the corridor to spit out the seeds. Formerly the floor would have got them.

A girl on the shelf above me, singing rollicking Revolutionary songs, leans down and points to an iron container built into the wall. "Put your ashes in there," she says, "it is not sanitary to throw stubs on the floor."

One day, down in the Caucasus, I gave an old, fat peasant woman and her two children a piece of gum which she chewed with great energy for several hours. The next day each child in turn got the gum.

If you travel first or second-class in Russia, you must also revise your habits. At the border the tourist guide tells visitors that they may get a stranger of the opposite sex in their compartments. Coming out from Moscow I drew a lower berth in a "soft" compartment for four, with an American engineer and a Russian chemist as my companions. When I was ready to turn in, I merely said so and they both got up and went out into the corridor to smoke.

I closed the door and when I undressed, opened the door, crawled in and turned my face to the wall. When the last person in was ready for bed, he shut and locked the door, and turned out the light. In the morning, the plan was reversed.

Any trip out of Moscow through the country shows you the growth of Russia more than the capital itself. In 1925, on the whole trip from China, Siberian villages were composed of tiny mud or wooden houses, set in unattractive mud streets, were grouped about a decorative Russian church. Its gold-starred dome stood out as the dominating feature of every settlement.

To-day, travelling through the country, many of the churches still remain, but now, huge smokestacks pouring forth black smoke and new silos full of new grain, dominate the scene.

The Russians travelling with you will point out the smokestacks and granaries and hold forth for hours on figures of production that are being reached under the Five-Year Plan.

Next! Recreation in Soviet Russia. Playgrounds everywhere for children and adults as well.

CHARGE DESCRIBED AS "OUTRAGEOUS."

VOTES QUERIES.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee of the Legislative Council, held yesterday, under the Chairmanship of the Colonial Secretary, votes totalling $150,509 were approved, and a number of questions were asked and answered.

It was stated that the new female prison at Lai-chi-hok would be ready for opening in February.

The Chairman announced that a Government statement as to its intentions with regard to the report of the Currency Commission would ultimately be published, but he could not say when.

Referring to a vote of $377 for a grant to the Mounted Infantry Company of the Volunteers, the Hon. Mr. Paterson said:—It is only a very small amount, $8 for shoes for ponies, but it strikes me as outrageous. I can get a pair of aluminium racing plates put on for less than that, but that is a very ticklish job as it has to be an accurate fit and cold shoeing a fair price would be about $8. I don't suggest for a moment that the Army is trying to "squeeze" the M.I., but it merely illustrates the fact that when a Government Department tries to enter as civilians it always ends up by charging a great deal more for it.

The Chairman:—I take it you will not oppose the vote as it stands.

Hon. Mr. Paterson:—No. The Chairman:—Well, I will cause enquiries to be made about this charge.

Typhoon Repairs.

With reference to a vote of $7,100 for typhoon and rainstorm damages, the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock said:—I notice we are asked to vote $7,100. That sum is made up by including in the figures the cost of work already approved and, or, awaiting approval. It seems rather to imply that we are going to approve of something we have already approved of. Can you tell us the cost of the work already awaiting approval?

The Colonial Treasurer:—It is very difficult to say. Hon. Director of Public Works:—These are typhoon damages, and the typhoon which occurred on September 2 resulted in a great deal of damage to piers which had to be repaired immediately.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—But how much of the $54,000 has not yet been approved?

Hon. Mr. Paterson:—There is quite a lot of work still not finished, but I do not think that that can be blamed on the P.W.D., because the contract appears to have been given to the lowest tenderer who is extremely slow. I live out at Sheung Shui and I pass certain typhoon damage which has not yet been repaired. It was done in the first typhoon, a good long time ago and, incidentally, one gentleman, who repairs the road, puts a few stones down and a great deal of red earth, and the red earth comes out all over the road and the work has to be done again.

Unwanted Contractor.

Hon. Director of Public Works: I think you are referring to a contractor who has been taken off the list. We have had to take the work out of his hands.

Hon. Mr. Paterson:—I am glad of that.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—I want to know how much of the $54,000 represents work, the cost of which is awaiting approval.

The Chairman:—The $54,000 has been approved.

Hon. Director of Public Works: The first portion of $25,000 was in the estimates and the second was approved in Message No. 10.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—Then it has all been approved? This has all been sanctioned by the Council?

Hon. Director of Public Works:—Yes.

New Female Prison.

With regard to a vote of $48,000 for a new female prison at Lai-chi-hok, the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock asked: Will the $48,000 complete the work?

Hon. Director of Public Works:—Yes, it will complete the work. The work is to be finished in February.

The Chairman:—Yes, but there is $71,000 to go in next year.

Hon. Director of Public Works:—The goal is all ready to be opened in February, but what these additional items are for I do not know.

Hon. Colonial Treasurer:—I think they got on with the work quicker than was anticipated.

Hon. Director of Public Works:—We shall require $71,000 for next year. The $48,000 is the balance we shall require this year and $71,000 next year. As the Colonial Treasurer has said we have got on more quickly and we shall require the money.

Sir Henry Pollock:—The work will be finished in April?

DON BRADMAN'S ENGAGEMENT.

CHILDHOOD ROMANCE.

A childhood romance has culminated in the engagement, just announced, of Don Bradman, the Australian cricketer, and Miss Jessie Menzies.

As a child Miss Menzies used to stay with the Bradman family at their home at Bowral, where she and her fiancé attended the same school.

Hon. Director of Public Works:—No, February.

Currency Commission.

On a vote for $35,202 for expenses in connexion with the Currency Commission, the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall said:—It is stated that salaries and the cost of printing the report are not included in the sum of $35,202 now asked for. Can you tell us for whom were the salaries paid and the total amount?

The Chairman:—The salaries were not charged to this Government. We do not know what they are. We only know that they have not charged us for them.

The Colonial Treasurer:—The printing report is charged to the Home Government and the salaries. We are not paying anything.

Hon. Mr. Kotewall:—Arising out of this item, can Government, at an early date, make a statement of its intentions with regard to the recommendations of the Commission?

The Chairman:—It will make a statement as early as possible, but I cannot tell you when that will be.

Hon. Mr. Kotewall:—But a statement will be made?

The Chairman:—Certainly, ultimately, but I cannot tell you when it will be made, as it will certainly have to go to England first.

Hon. Mr. C. Gordon Mackie:—Have you asked for the views of the Chamber of Commerce and the Banking Association?

The Chairman:—Yes, but the replies have not yet been received so we do not know how soon it will be.

Under-Estimated Vote.

Referring to a vote of $2,000 for electric light and fan charges, the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock said:—

Why is it necessary to pay this additional $2,000 as a supplementary vote to meet anticipated expenditure?

Hon. Director of Public Works:—The sum of $28,000 was originally asked for but it was cut down to $26,000. The control of this vote is not now in the hands of any one particular department, and it is estimated that we shall want another $2,000 to complete the charges for the year.

Hon. Mr. Kotewall:—In other words the vote was under-estimated?

The Chairman:—Yes.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—The vote was cut down and now you find you want another $2,000?

Hon. Director of Public Works:—Yes.

All the votes were approved.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

All the world's great arts have been mobilized for service in Frank Lloyd's Fox Movietone production, "East Lynne," featuring an all star cast headed by Ann Harding, Clive Brook, Conrad Nagel, Cecilia Loftus, Boyd Mercer, O. P. Heggie and David Torrence. This romantic screen drama suggested by Mrs. Henry Wood's will have its local premiere very soon at the King's Theatre.

History shares honours with the heart interest in "East Lynne." One of the outstanding scenes in this emotional romance is a living reproduction of the historically famous scene of the Emperor with his entire staff at the close of the Franco-Prussian War. Blomark is seen reading famous proclamation stating that the Emperor takes possession of Paris.

Earlier in the production a brief sequence showing the bombardment of Paris by the Prussian forces is enacted. It is during this sweeping scene that Isabel, played by Ann Harding, is snowed under an avalanche of debris from bombarded and falling buildings.

Music, too, plays an important role in "East Lynne." Richard Fall, famous Viennese composer of "The Dollar Princess" and other operettas and compositions, has written an original French musical air, a Viennese schottische and two waltzes. In addition he supervised the playing of famous classic compositions and the singing of "The You'll Remember Me" by Miss Harding.

Joseph Urban, foremost designer of settings for stage and screen and architect of royal palaces and many of New York's finest structures, personally supervised the designing and construction of the sets in "East Lynne." These settings are representative of various moods of life in London, East Lynne, Vienna and Paris.

Sophie Wachner, America's foremost costume designer, the woman whose creations set the style for Hollywood's stars, supervised the making of no less than 50 different dresses and gowns worn by Miss Harding and 7,893 costumes worn by other characters and "extras" in "East Lynne."

Mrs. Hilda Greiner, former personal attendant for many years to Queen Mary of England, the former Princess Sofia of Germany and other European royal personages, was expert consultant to Director Lloyd during the making of "East Lynne."

"The Great Lover."

What is the best "line" of the greatest lover in this city, known to you?

Think of it, and then compare it to the one used, time and again, by Adolphe Menjou as "The Great Lover," which will come on Sunday to the Queen's Theatre.

A famous French baritone, women trip over each other to know Paurel, romanticist, extraordinary. And always Paurel tells them the same thing. "You are the only woman I have ever met who completely thrills me!" As a "line" he knows but that it may be equally efficacious in . . .

Associated with Menjou in the production, directed by Harry Beaumont, is a great cast, including Irene Dunne of "Cimarron," Ernest Torrence, Neil Hamilton, Buchanan, Cliff Edwards, Hale Hamilton and Roscoe Ates.

"The Great Lover" was adapted by Gene Markay and Edgar Allan Woolf from the play by Leo Ditrichstein and Frederick and Fanny Hatton.

"The Sea God."

Richard Arlen's activities as a motion picture player have taken him from thousands of feet above the earth to fathoms below the ocean's surface.

It was the air epic, "Wings," that started Arlen on the way to stardom. While that picture was being filmed, he was in the air every working day for several weeks.

In his role as a diver in Paramount's "The Sea God," he spent much time on the ocean floor under several fathoms of water.

Of the two extremes, Arlen says he prefers the air.

"It is an uncanny experience to be wandering about with the fish down on the ocean's floor," he declared. "And when the heavy diving helmet was fastened over my head, I felt as though I were being sealed in a tomb. It was a tremendous relief to come up into the air and get out of the cumbersome outfit."

"However, the submarine sights were intensely weird and interesting, and I wouldn't have missed the experience for anything."

Fay Wray plays the feminine lead opposite Arlen in "The Sea God" with Eugene Pallette having another featured role.

George Abbott directed this adventure tale of lovers who find happiness after an amazing series of adventures on and near cannibal isle. It is showing at the Central Theatre now.

Blanche Sweet Returns to Pictures. After a long absence from the screen, Blanche Sweet, a favourite since the early days of motion pictures, is staging a comeback in "Show Girl in Hollywood," the first National and Vitaphone picture, which is showing at the Queen's Theatre.

Appropriately enough, Miss Sweet's role is that of a famous film star, Alice White star of "Show Girl in Hollywood," plays the part of Dixie Dugan. Jack Mulhall appears as a dialogue writer, and Ford Sterling as a producer.

Blanche Sweet made her first stage appearance at the ripe age of eighteen months. She was carried on as a babe in arms in melodrama. Grown up, she appeared with Chauncey Olcott in the play "The House of Mirth." Her first screen part was as one of the wives in "The Man With Three Wives." In "The Man With Three Wives," she scored her first screen triumph, and in the title role of the late Thomas Ince's "Anna Christie" she achieved what was considered one of the finest portrayals in screen history.

With Marshall Neilan, whom she later married, she was starred in many pictures including "The House of Mirth" and "Men and Women." One of her last silent pictures was "The New Commandment."

"Show Girl in Hollywood" gives her an opportunity for a highly dramatic portrayal. The story is a comedy, but filled with many real-life tragedies and heart-breaks of those who seek success in the movies. John Miljan, Virginia Sales, Lee Shumway and Herman Bing are in the cast. Mervyn LeRoy directed.

The story is by J. P. McEvoy and contains beautiful Technicolor musical sequences.

How Tilden Keeps Fit

William (Big Bill) Tilden was decidedly little Bill when he won his first tournament match. At the ten years of age, he then made him famous in a junior boys' meet in the Catskill mountains, New York. Tilden says he has saved that cup as his most cherished treasure.

"Two things got me started," says the veteran champion of the courts. "My brother was a mighty good player and Fred B. Alexander the great doubles champion, had a summer home near ours in the mountains. Watching him play, gave me the urge to reach his heights in the game. As a little fellow, I spent every day on the courts.

Tilden who has won more tennis championships than any man in the world, and who is now making a series of educational pictures for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, says he went into every tournament possible from the age of seven.

"Constant competition developed my game a lot, and then a rather odd circumstance arose that made me figure out the problems of the court on a purely scientific basis. At Philadelphia Academy near Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, I played in the tennis team and the year after I left school, the captain of the team asked me to come back and help coach. I did it for the love of the game, and for the training that proved the most valuable I ever had."

"The younger members of the team fired so many questions at me that I found I didn't have answers for the lot of them. That drove me to an intensely scientific study of the game."

"I went about figuring out the game as a problem in geometry and physics. The game is primarily a geometric and physical one. I drew up charts on a geometric basis in order to answer the questions of attack and defence. These very charts were to be the foundation of my game. From then on, I treated the whole matter as a series of problems."

"Contrary to the general opinion, I had no professional coaching. I observed good players, how they made their strokes and serves, and kept overhauling at it. I made it a point to be in every tournament that came up. It is actual competition more than anything else that makes a good player—that, and the study of the game on a mathematical basis."

"To play in the national championships was a natural outgrowth of smaller competitions and then came international tournaments. Keeping in top form was then just a matter of playing constantly. It is just the same now that I am making pictures. I play at every opportunity."

While Tilden is at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, he is keeping trim playing exhibition matches in Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, California.

R.H.K. GOLF CLUB.

SATISFACTORY YEAR REPORTED.

SOUND FINANCES.

There was a large attendance of members at the annual meeting of the Royal Hongkong Golf Club, held in the board room of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd., yesterday, when Mr. A. B. Stewart, outgoing captain, presided, and was supported by Mr. G. S. Archbutt (past-captain), Mr. L. G. S. Dodwell (Captain-elect), Col. Matthews (Secretary) and members of the committee.

The Chairman, in proposing the adoption of the report and accounts said:

Captain's Speech.

Gentlemen,—The report and accounts having been in your hands for the prescribed period I propose with your permission to take them, together with the Auditor's report, as read.

I am glad to be able to report a very satisfactory year's working. The accounts are as usual set out in considerable detail, but a few comments may be of interest.

Expenses have not increased materially except in regard to the upkeep of the various courses. At Happy Valley the two greens in front of the clubhouse, Nos. 6 and 9, had to be relaid as also No. 4. At Deep Water Bay, most of the matting tees, which are expensive, had to be renewed. The same applies to the matting tees which were blown down in the typhoon. It is proposed to experiment shortly with some less expensive form of matting for tees and a suggestion to replace the matting tees by more permanent structures is also under consideration. In this connexion, I'd like to thank Mr. W. A. Butterfield for his great assistance to the Deep Water Bay sub-committee in connexion with these and similar matters. At Fanling, a great deal of top dressing was done during the summer months.

Insignificant Bad Debts.

As regards revenue, subscriptions are up due to increased membership. Green fees were raised during the year but are still on the low side compared with similar charges at other clubs.

Demand for lockers has increased and more are being provided this year. The return from Lodging A/c at Fanling shows an improvement which I hope will continue.

As regards Meals, Wines etc., the turnover, owing to the low dollar, shows an increase of 33.1/2% with a corresponding increase in profit, percentages remaining approximately the same as before.

Turning to the P. and L. A/c you will note that the amount of Bad Debts is again insignificant, a loss of only $20.71 on a turnover of $209,099.20 being remarkable and reflecting great credit on the Secretary's office.

The special item of $35.30 represents a loss due to the efforts of an enterprising gentleman who visited Happy Valley and Deep Water Bay and signed cheques in a certain member's name to that amount. The fraud was fortunately discovered before it had gone very far and the perpetrator paid the penalty, but not the cheques, in due course.

The Balance Sheet.

Turning to the Balance Sheet, you will note that Debentures to the value of $20,000 were redeemed during the year and the amount outstanding including accrued interest is now only $2,682.00. It was considered advisable to write off to Reserve A/c the cost of the New Course Extension and Gun Club site as these cannot be regarded as Assets. The latter was resumed by Government when the consolidated lease of the ground at Fanling, referred to later, was arranged.

Capital expenditure during the year amounted to $36,835.57, made up as follows:

Fanling New Course Extension etc.	$11,377.96
Less net amount recovered from Govt. for cost of land	8,952.62
	3,325.34

Happy Valley New Clubhouse, and Furniture	28,621.23
New Mower—less sales	4,207.50
Sundry Items	381.50
	$36,835.57

Satisfactory Position.

Due to this necessary expenditure and the repayment of Debentures our Bank overdraft at 30/9/31 amounted to $24,085.10. The Club's financial position however, must be regarded as very satisfactory as at the close of the year our Liquid assets, consisting of Stocks, Accounts Receivable, and Cash amounted to $41,760.05 against liabilities, consisting of Debentures, Sundry creditors and Bank overdraft, $30,906.88 leaving a surplus of $4,793.27.

Before concluding my remarks on the Accounts I would like to take this opportunity of expressing our thanks to the Ladies Section for their kindness in providing new Curtains, Cretonnes etc., for the main room in the Fanling Ladies Clubhouse and the upstairs room at Deep Water Bay. I'm sure you will agree that the improved appearance of the rooms is most noticeable.

Some Outstanding Events.

The year under review, like its predecessor has been one of considerable and varied activity. Outstanding events were:

1. Formal opening of New Course by H. E. the Governor on 2nd November, referred to by the Capt. in his speech at last year's meeting.
2. Opening of new Happy Valley Clubhouse which, I am pleased to say, has resulted in increased play and additional revenue.
3. The signing of a consolidated lease for all the ground occupied by the Club at Fanling. The position is now clear and simple, whereas previously we held leases over certain parts of the land and owned other old lots.

4. We had a visit from two famous professionals, Cruickshank and Melhorn and a large number of members and others took advantage of the opportunity to see what an easy game golf really is to experts. While on this subject, I may mention that Larry Montes, a well-known professional is here for the winter season. He is a first-class player and teacher and I hope members will take full advantage of the opportunity to acquire further knowledge of the art of Golf.

Caddie Scheme Success.

5. Caddie Registration Scheme. As you know this has been discussed in previous years, but for various reasons, the necessary action has never been taken. The present Committee, after considerable discussion, came to (Continued on Page 12.)

A MOST remarkable cure for coughs, chills, sore throat, bronchitis, etc., is known as the Peps breathable treatment. When dissolved in the mouth, a Peps tablet gives off highly-concentrated lung-healing balsams such as are breathed from the famous Swiss pine forest air. In the same way, the Peps volatile medicine is breathed into the innermost recesses of chest and lungs.

Mischievous disease germs lodged in the throat are speedily destroyed by Peps. Soreness, inflammation, and irritation of the delicate membrane is allayed, weakened tissues are strengthened, and the valuable soothing and healing influence of Peps reaches the entire bronchial system.

TALKING OF RIDDLES.

THE ANSWER TO A BURNING QUESTION.

To be confronted suddenly by an old friend, say in the street or at your office, who demanded in all seriousness to know the reason "Why the Dutchman Flew" how do you imagine you would react to his enquiry? Would you conclude that he was asking the answer to the last riddle he has heard at the club the previous evening, or would you perhaps imagine him to be keenly interested in aviation? For on the face of it these are the only conclusions one could arrive at when confronted with such a question.

"Why did the Dutchman Fly" is a riddle, but strange as it may seem it is one that has not as yet been propounded in any club, neither has it yet been asked anywhere at all in the Colony. And having asked the conundrum, although it may seem a little unfair on the surface, we leave you to discover the answer. We hasten to add however that, as in the case of a treasure hunt, we are happily in the position to offer clues, thereby permitting our readers to be first in the field with the reply to an important question that everyone will be asking during the next few days. These clues are:

General Managers

The conclusion that action could be postponed no longer and our thanks are due to Mr. L. G. Dodwell for getting down to brass tacks and producing a workable scheme which is now in operation.

The Caddies did not take kindly to the new arrangements at first, but the scheme is now a definite success and a great improvement on the previous state of affairs. Let me add that only by complete co-operation and scrupulous observance by all members of the rules and regulations, will it continue to be so. In this connection, I wish to thank the Kowloon-Canton Railway for their assistance in granting special fares for the caddies sent out from Happy Valley when those at Fanling were not available.

As regards the course, a great deal of top dressing was done during the summer and notwithstanding the excessive moisture and lack of sunshine I think you'll agree that these are in excellent condition. The New Course has come on remarkably well and is proving very popular with members.

Appreciation.

I wish to express my thanks to the members of the outgoing Committee for their assistance and co-operation during the year. I have already referred to Mr. Dodwell's labours in connection with the caddie registration scheme and I would like also to mention Mr. Lambert who has done a lot for the Club in a quiet way, particularly in connection with the supervision of our various motors and mowers and also in regard to our lighting system. As you know, the China Light and Power Co., Ltd., have extended their system to Fanling and it is hoped that current will be available in the near future. To conform with the regulations, the Club-houses have had to be rewired at considerable cost but the more expensive alternative was to renew our batteries and accumulators which are almost worn out.

Groundsman's Work.

I would also like to put in a word of appreciation of the work of Mr. and Mrs. Kerr. The condition of the courses is a tribute to the constant care and attention given to them by Kerr, who has also assisted in every possible way in connection with the new Caddie scheme. Mrs. Kerr deserves great credit for the most efficient and successful way in which she has looked after the catering Dept. In this connection, I might explain that the profit on meals at Fanling as shown, $8,537.13, is gross and after deducting relative overheads, the balance remaining is small. It is due to Mrs. Kerr's economical management that notwithstanding the increase in price of most commodities, we have been able to keep the price of the principal meal at Fanling, tiffin, at the low figure of 1.50.

Efficient Secretary.

Last but by no means least comes the Secretary, who has been of the greatest possible assistance to me during my year of office. The ordinary member has little idea of the great amount of detail work that has to be dealt with in the Secretary's office. I particularly like to thank Col. Matthews for the time and trouble he took in connection with the Caddie Registration Scheme and its success is due, in no small measure, to his efforts. He goes on leave next year and I am glad to say has accepted another appointment for a period of four years from March 1932. I might mention that the work of the Secretary's office would be considerably reduced if members would only take the trouble to read the new book of Rules and Regulations issued during the year. This provides answers to a great number of the enquiries which members continue to address to the office.

No Rebuilding Yet.

You may remember that in his speech at last year's meeting Mr. Archbutt referred to the question of rebuilding the men's clubhouse at Fanling. In view of the heavy capital expenditure during the year under review to which I have already referred the present Committee has taken no action in the matter.

The Incoming Committee may however, consider the time opportune to give this problem further consideration.

The proposal to add another storey to the Ladies Clubhouse is also a matter for future discussion. At present the accommodation available is insufficient to meet the demand. Plans were prepared some time ago but the problem is mainly a financial one.

Ladies Subscription.

In the opinion of the present Committee, we are approaching the point where limitation of membership may have to be seriously considered. In this connection, it may interest members to know that we have on our books the names of over 400 ladies of whom approximately one third are "unattached" and the remainder "lady relatives" of members. Having in view the congested state of the courses and the future developments already outlined, I am of opinion that it would be only reasonable for ladies to pay something for the privileges they enjoy. A subscription of say $1 p.m. for "lady relatives" and say $2 for "unattached" ladies wouldn't hurt anybody. There are, no doubt many lady members who seldom use the courses. In such cases they could register as "non-playing" members and pay a green fee of $1 when the course is used. I am not arguing this matter primarily on financial grounds but on the principle that "something for nothing" isn't a reasonable arrangement. Shanghai and Singapore take this view and I was interested to learn the other day that our friends in Kowloon are of like mind. As you know, this proposition has been discussed on previous occasions and turned down but with the continued increase in the number of "lady members" I suggest to the Incoming Committee that a meeting be called to reconsider the position.

I now propose the adoption of the Report and Accounts for the year ending 30th September, 1931. After this has been seconded, I shall be glad to reply to any questions arising out of the accounts which Members may wish to ask.

Remarkable Results.

Mr. E. Davidson seconded the adoption of the report, the course of which he said that such a report as presented to them that day needed no recommendation from anybody. The results were very remarkable in view of the widespread depression all over the world, and in addition, when they remembered that the Dollar in Hongkong had fallen to an extremely low figure during the year. He considered that the contrast between the figure representing bad debts and the total turnover was not only a tribute to the Secretary's office, but to the members themselves on the ready way they had paid.

The report and accounts were unanimously adopted.

The New Captain.

The Chairman then proposed the election of Mr. L. G. S. Dodwell as captain of the club for the ensuing year. Mr. Dodwell was unanimously elected captain, and in acknowledgment he said that he much appreciated the honour and he would be happy to do his best to carry on the excellent work of his predecessors.

Other Officers.

On the proposition of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. L. S. Greenhill, Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming were appointed auditors for the ensuing year.

The following were then elected to serve as general committee:—Messrs. G. S. Archbutt, D. G. Bruce, E. Davidson, J. W. Frank, L. S. Greenhill, H. U. Ireland, J. D. Kinnaird, C. D. Lambert, and A. B. Stewart.

The Ladies' Question.

Mr. E. Davidson raised the question of introducing a subscription for lady members, and said he wished to

ARMY ELEVEN FOR MATCH AGAINST CIVILIANS.

The side to represent the Army in their match against the Civilians on the Sookmoo ground to-morrow afternoon at 3.45 p.m. has been selected and is composed of the following players:

Pte. Hastie (Argyll and S. H.); Pte. Blackburn (Argyll and S. H.); Pte. Morrison (S. W. Borderers); Pte. McEldan (Argyll and S. H.); Cpl. Hay (Argyll and S. H.); Cpl. Underwood (S. W. Borderers); Pte. Harris (S. W. Borderers); Pte. Davis (S. W. Borderers); Pte. Wylie (Argyll and S. H.); Cpl. Lamont (Argyll and S. H.); Pte. Hughes (Argyll and S. H.).

Reserves: Sig. Gillot (Royal Corps of Signals), Pte. Ianson (R.A.M.C.), Privates Johnson, Morgan, Channing, Jones, and Podmore (S. W. Borderers), Privates Docherty, Gordon, Reid and Campbell (Argyll and S. H.).

propose for recommendation to the new committee that the feeling of the meeting was that the committee should take steps to make a charge for ladies using the clubhouse and courses.

Mr. D. G. Bruce seconded, and Mr. C. Bulmer Johnson said that although he was always accused of talking on a subject of which he knew nothing, that he was entirely in agreement with the proposition, and he thought the married men would be as well. At the same time he would like to know whether, if such steps were taken, it would entail the ladies attempting to rule the club.

The Chairman said that if such steps as suggested were taken, the ladies section would be asked to form a sub-committee and it would act like all sub-committees, making recommendations to the general committee, but otherwise would have no voice in the management of the club. The proposition was put to the meeting and carried without dissent.

Tribute to Secretary.

Mr. H. G. Sheldon said as a private member he would like to add an expression of appreciation to the service of Col. Matthews, their Secretary. Few members realised the great amount of work involved in running three courses so smoothly as they were, while Col. Matthews always succeeded in making suitable arrangements for the transfer of caddies and clubs from one course to another. In his humble opinion, the tributes paid by the chairman to Col. Matthews were richly deserved.

Mr. J. D. Danby proposed a vote of thanks to the outgoing captain, committee and sub-committees for all the excellent work they had accomplished during the year. This was carried with acclamation.

The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd. for the use of the Board Room, which was proposed by the Chairman.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

Scheme, (5) $770,000 on the Vehicular Ferry, and (6) $300,000 on the new gaoi at Wong Ma Koi, the sum in each case to be met from a future loan, and meanwhile to be charged as an advance from the surplus balances of the Colony.

In moving their adoption, the Colonial Secretary said:

With the permission of this Council, Sir, I should like to refer to the first motion standing in my name, together with the five motions following. Honourable Members will remember that when I had the honour of introducing the Budget I referred in some detail to the amounts which were to be spent from loan funds on various works referred to in these six motions, but I do not think that Honourable Members will wish me to take up their time by repeating now the details which I gave them then.

I have only to add, with regard to the last of these motions referring to the new gaoi at Wong Ma Koi, that Your Excellency has since received the approval of the Secretary of State for meeting the expenditure of the new gaoi from loan funds. I now move the first motion standing in my name.

The Colonial Secretary seconded.

To Complete Work.

The Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—Before this motion is put to the meeting I should like to ask, with reference to motions now, one, three and four, whether the amounts voted will complete the work, that is the Shing Mun Valley first section, the Aberdeen Water Scheme and the filters in connexion with the Shing Mun Valley Scheme.

Hon. Director of Public Works:—Yes.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—It will complete the first section in all three cases.

Hon. Director of Public Works:—Yes.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—I do not know whether it would be possible for Government to make any statement with regard to the future progress of the work, with regard to the second section of the Shing Mun Scheme.

Vital to Colony.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—The position with regard to the second section is that the scheme has been submitted to a Consulting Engineer, and two members of the Firm have been out and have approved of it. The question was referred to the Secretary of State in the first instance, and it was held over temporarily for that report. He expressed some views on the subject as to whether we could afford the total cost. It is a very expensive scheme but I strongly pointed out, in a dispatch which included reference to the gaoi, that not only was it an essential work, vital to the Colony, but that I considered our financial position was amply good enough to permit of the scheme being proceeded with at once.

In the telegram in which the Secretary of State approved of the gaoi being paid for out of loan funds, he merely stated, with regard to the second section of the scheme, that we must wait a little. I assume, therefore, from that, that if the second report is favourable, we shall be empowered to proceed with it.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—Thank you, Sir.

All the motions were passed on the proposal of the Colonial Secretary, seconded by the Colonial Treasurer.

Liquor Ordinance.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled, "A Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to intoxicating liquors." He said:—There is attached at the end of the Bill a table of correspondence which shows how far the Bill is purely of a consolidating nature, and how far it has been improved by amendments. The chief new amendment is that the licensed warehouses for the storage of intoxicating liquors under the old Ordinance will not be continued, but arrangements will be made by which firms who desire to store liquor may get a special bonded warehouse of their own approved by the Governor-in-Council. There are certain changes in the duties and certain new re-arrangements of the districts to which they apply, as stated in remarks in the schedule on pages 49 and 50.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Public Revenue.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled, "A Bill to amend the Public Revenue Protection Ordinance, 1927." He said:—This adds to the principal Ordinance a new section which is taken from the Finance Act of 1915 as explained in the memorandum.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Patents Ordinance.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled, "A Bill to amend further the registration of United Kingdom Patents Ordinance, 1925." He said:—The amendments effected by this Ordinance have been suggested by the advisers to the Secretary of State and are explained in the memorandum attached to the Bill.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Tobacco Taxation.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled, "A Bill to amend and consolidate the law relating to the taxation of tobacco." He said:—This is another consolidation ordinance, and follows the scheme under which it is hoped before long to consolidate all revenue ordinances.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Tote Taxation.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled, "A Bill to make provision for the taxation of bets on the authorised totalisator or pari-mutuels, and on contributions or subscriptions towards authorised cash sweeps." He said:—Such taxation has been imposed in the Straits Settlements and Federated Malay States, under which a flat rate of five per cent is charged as duty. Under this Ordinance five per cent will only be charged in relation to cash sweeps, and three per cent for tickets on the totalisator and pari-mutuels. The Ordinance contains a schedule giving the regulations with which the Governor-in-Council is hoping to start.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

A Bill to amend the Full Court Ordinance, 1912, was read a second and third time and passed, while "A Bill to amend the Suits' Funds Ordinance, 1896," was read a third time and passed.

Adjournment.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—Council stands adjourned until next Thursday, December 17.

BRIGHTER LIPS.

KISSES IN TWO COLOURS.

Paris, Nov. 13.
One lipstick is not enough, the chic Parisienne has decided to import to female lips a really fascinating charm.

Henceforward two lipsticks—of different shades—will be required for a really smart appearance.
By pencilling one lip an interesting pink and the other a fascinating crimson some Frenchwomen hope to invest their mouths with a new and arresting piquancy.

So far two shades of the same colour have made their appearance in fashionable night clubs and upon the Champs Elysees, but the possibility of introducing two strongly contrasted colours for the two lips is said to be under consideration.

If this were done one might expect to see women whose upper lips match their hats, while the lower lips match their handbags.
Green and brown, pink and blue,
and even silver and gold are suggested here to-day as feasible combinations. Naturally, the

Mr. George Mansell, who read a paper to the Royal Society of Arts on Nov. 1 thinks it should.

Other criticisms by Mr. Mansell of London streets were:
St. George's Hospital, on a site
it would be hard to better, has gathered to itself such a collection of tins, collecting boxes, signs, boards, and advertisements as beggars description.

Westminster Hospital, with the Abbey at its right hand, has made of its front a sort of "jumble sale" effect, more in keeping with a small parish hall mentality than that of a great hospital placed in the heart of the Empire.

Mr. Mansell urged that there was an urgent need for "cultured
central control, such as the London County Council, to say what our street signs should be—and have done with it."

BANKER'S LOCAL ESTATE.

LEAVES $213,700 IN HONGKONG.

The late Mr. Angus Boyd, formerly of Windghoul, Dublin; Scotland, who died at Chelston Den, Maitland Crescent, Colombo, Ceylon, on January 23, 1931 left Hongkong estate to the value of $213,700, while personal estate and effects in England and Scotland total £3,432 19s. He was an accountant in the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. Re-sealing of testament-testamentary of Unquihile of the will has been granted to Mr. G. G. N. Tinson, of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master who is attorney for the widow, Hilda Grace Bawtree, or Boyd, the sole executrix named in the will and to whom everything is bequeathed.

Hongkong estate worth $46,700 was left by the late Li Lin-tai, alias Li Yu-chung, alias Li Ngok-hing, alias Li San Tong, late of No. 7, Queen Victoria Street, who died at No. 44, Nga Yiu Hau Street, Canton, on July 21, 1930. Letters of administration with the will annexed have been granted to Li Lin-shi, widow, and Li Shin-sing, son, both of whom are living at the Queen Victoria street address. Testator directs that the estate be handed over to them to administer with full power.

Administration has been granted in the estate of the late Cheung Tinsung, late of No. 32, Main Street, Shaohkwan East, who died in the French Hospital, Causeway Bay, on February 13, 1931. Probate has been granted to the widow, Tsang Chuen-tai. The will contains a number of family bequests.

Influence of League.

London, Dec. 10.

Speaking in London to-day, the Foreign Minister, Sir John Simon, said in reference to the Manchurian situation that if anybody doubted
the reality of the influence of the League, let him consider what the position might have been if there had not been a calling together of

YANGTZE SHIP EXPLOSION.

VESSEL TOWED INTO SHANGHAI.

OVER 20 KILLED.

Shanghai, Dec. 8.
Captain C. Opperman, master of the m.v. I-tu of the Yangtze Rapid Steamship Co., is warmly commended for his courage and action during the recent disaster to the vessel in messages received by the company yesterday.

The vessel, which was badly damaged in an explosion and a blaze about 100 miles below Chungking, is being towed in to-day by the Ichang, operated by the same company.

The toll of the disaster is known to be 27. Three of them were engineers killed in the explosion in the engine room, while the remainder were Chinese passengers who trapped aft of the engine room by flames, jumped overboard and were drowned.

The fire spread so quickly that in about 25 minutes the upperworks were a roaring furnace. Captain Opperman soon beached the ship
and all the passengers and crew, except the 20 panic-stricken Chinese who jumped overboard, were transported ashore by sampans.

The passengers, carrying light luggage were taken to Yam Tu Chi and lodged in a temple. Rumours were soon rampant that the foreigners had been held as prisoners and until $50,000 ransom was paid
they would not be allowed to leave the temple. These soon died away with the arrival of the native Catholic Priest, the village rich man and a philanthropist.

The village rich man offered the room of his house to the foreigners,
who stayed there the next day.

The officers and crew of the U.S.S. Tutuila all showed splendid work in combating the fire and later salvaging the vessel.

THE TOOTING NUISANCE.

SEVERAL DRIVERS IN COURT.

Mention was made during the hearing of traffic summonses before Mr. Grantham this morning regarding the nuisance created by the unnecessary blowing of horns, particularly in Pedder Street where residents complained of being disturbed at night.

Cautions were administered in a number of cases.

Sergt. Guild, prosecuting a lorry driver, said the man, in addition to having a load of vegetables, had 12 passengers. He was sounding his horn incessantly as he traversed
the short distance between Statue Square and Ullmann's store before being pulled up.

A total of $10 in fines was imposed in this case.

Summoning a public car driver
for dangerous driving, Inspector Alexander said the man drove out of Morrison Street into the Praya, swung round the pionsman on duty and got on to the wrong side of the road, narrowly missing witness who was proceeding westwards on motorcycle patrol.

Defendant as fined $15.

"LADIES NIGHT."

ENJOYABLE Y. M. C. A.
FUNCTION.

That Ladies Night at the European Y.M.C.A., still remains one of the most popular of the Association's social activities, was evidenced last night, when the usual monthly function took place.

There was a record attendance at the special dinner, and afterwards a crowded lounge listened with keenest enjoyment to an excellent entertainment.

Mrs. F.C.E. Rendall was in customary good voice, and delighted her hearers with four songs, while Mrs. J.H. Hunt entertained with some amusing monologues. Mrs.
Portallion selected two of her best numbers and sang them with great verve and effect. Mr. Rupert Bal-win, A.T.C.L., was at the piano, and in addition to assisting Mrs. P. St. A. Sharpam in accompanying the vocalists, rendered a selected number to open the programme.

The final part of the evening was devoted to a one-act play, cleverly performed by Mrs. G.R. Leib, Mrs.
E.W. Niblet and Miss R.F. Ingram.
They repeated "Between the Soup and the Savoury", which they presented with such signal success at the Kowloon Union Church recently. They were very warmly received by the audience.

SEPARATED AFTER 52 YEARS.

"RATHER DREADFUL."

A woman of 75 has obtained a judicial separation in the Divorce Court from her husband, who is also 75, and to whom she has been married for 52 years.

"This is rather dreadful," said
Mr. Justice Bateson when told the age of the parties and how long they had been married.

The petitioner, Mrs. Elizabeth
Margaret McCormick, West-parade, Boxhill-on-Sea, alleged cruelty by her husband, William Abraham McCormick. He denied any cruelty.

Counsel said that Mr. McCormick was a Plymouth Brother, and was understood to have religious scruples about separation.

In granting the separation decree Mr. Justice Bateson said it was ridiculous and rather dreadful that elderly people like those in the case could not settle their differences without coming to court.

An Old Man's Violence.

Mrs. McCormick, he said, was frail, and her husband was a man of considerable vigour, not only in speech, but in his actions. As he grew older he got more violence into his methods.

"I have not the slightest doubt that the wife was frightened of her husband and he seems to have got more and more frightening as he has got older," the judge
continued.

In 1926 the wife was injured
by a pen and was pushed against the stair banisters. She was so frightened that she looked herself in a room with her daughter.

Then in 1928 Mr. McCormick hit his wife. "I doubt whether he meant to hit her, but I don't think he knows how his violence has affected his wife," commented
the judge.

Early this year his outbursts were more numerous and at the end of March his wife left him.

"It is time," added the judge,
"that the Court interfered to protect her from his possible (though maybe unintentional) violence."
